ANN HARDISON, Editor

JOHN COOKE, Business Manager

Foreword

The purpose of the 1939 Hi-Ways is merely to give you an informal and exact picture of the activities and interests that are ours, the Students of Wadesboro High School. We consider ourselves lucky to leave for you this annual as a permanent reminder of the happiness found on this campus in the land of cotton.

DEDICATION

We, wishing to express our devotion and respect for one who has always been sincerely interested in every one of us, lovingly dedicate our 1939 Hi-Ways to

our Principal, teacher, and friend.

I hope that my sister, Mararuth will always be as happy as can be. Best of luck to one who has always been my buddy.

THE 1939 HI-WAYS

The Senior Class Creed

We, THE Senior Class of Wadesboro High School, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred thirty-nine, do believe that a high school education is of the highest importance to an individual and that in order to procure the greatest possible benefits from such a high school education we must co-operate to the best of our individual ability with our teachers, our superintendent, and our classmates. We believe that the academic course of study is of primary importance, but that extracurricular activities are highly beneficial.

We believe that, as Seniors, we should set the precedent in good behavior, good sportsmanship and right attitude, and be above reproach in keeping all our high school rules and regulations.

We believe that inasmuch as athletics strengthen the body and stimulate the brain they should be included in our high school course.

We believe that in the high school we should develop and train ourselves in the principles of straight thinking, strength of character, and temperance in all things, so that upon graduation we shall be better fitted to live full, righteous lives as citizens of the United States or of any other country in which our lot may be cast.

WADESBORO HIGH SCHOOL

*FAREWELL! A word that must be, and hath been—
A sound which makes us linger; yet farewell!*

CLASS SONG

To the tune of "A Perfect Day"

Now the time has come to say adieu to our dear old Wadcsboro high.
We have worked and played, and the friends we've made
Will help turn the pages of time.
All down through the ages for you we'll raise
Our dear Alma Mater's praise.
So adieu to our dear ole high school days
And to you, dear ole Wadesboro High.

By MARION ROGERS.

CLASS POEM

*Beautiful memories are like rays of the sun
To be cherished through the years to come
In the careers that we have just begun
Built on the high school work we've done.*

*Some memories fade and so do the rays,
But may all of ours grow sublime
From the pleasures of our high school days
As members of the class of thirty-nine.*

*May the memories of our school days
All be filled with joy and not regret,
For we have learned in many ways
The paths of life are harder yet.*

By JULIA HILL.

May King and Queen

Instead of having the old style, formal class day exercises the class of '39 presented a May Day Celebration. The King, Queen, and all of their royal attendants were elected from the class; however, all departments of the school were represented in the entertainment before their Royal Highnesses.

Rachel Marsh was crowned Queen of the May; Bill Hightower was crowned King.

Athletics at Wadesboro High School

The athletic program of the Wadesboro High School is now a very well-rounded one, composed of football, baseball, basketball, boxing, tennis, and gymnasium classes. It offers to every type boy and girl in school the opportunity for developing his physical and mental body and for excellent training in character building and sportsmanship. Coach C. P. Reinhardt, Director of Athletics, has sought, with the aid of Mr. W. L. Wildermuth, to give to Wadesboro every sport possible.

Unquestionably the most popular of all our sports is football. The "Tigers" have in the last few years been steadily improving in their calibre of football. With Mr. Reinhardt coaching, this past season was a very successful one. Out of eight games, we won five, tied one, and lost two, each player exhibiting real ability and true sportsmanship. Our opponents were among the strongest and best teams in the state, our successful record against them bearing fruit when one of our players, Charlie Hildreth, participated in the All-State football game.

At the completion of the football season, basketball took over in full sway. The two teams had a most successful season with Mr. Reinhardt coaching the boys and Mr. Wildermuth, the girls. The boys' quintet won eleven games and lost three. The girls won ten, lost five, and tied two. Both teams had stiff competition throughout the season, but with hard practicing and determination they came through with two fine teams.

This year inter-scholastic boxing has been added to the athletic curriculum. The season is not yet complete, but the boxers are showing up great against many leading teams of the state.

The outstanding sport of the spring, baseball, has begun with the interest of each boy aroused to a real desire for having a winning team. We are all looking for an outstanding season in high school baseball, with Mr. Reinhardt coaching the boys.

Tennis, another spring sport, though just in its infancy in Wadesboro High, is proving quite beneficial to the athletic program. Under the capable direction of Mr. Wildermuth, the netters are looking for a good season. This is the first year for girls' tennis in Wadesboro and only the second for the boys'.

Throughout the year, gym classes have been held for all pupils who wished exercise instead of one of their study halls. These classes have also added a great deal toward giving us a full athletic program that can help every single boy and girl in school.

Taking every thing into consideration the Wadesboro High School now has an athletic program of which we can all be justly proud. Made up of five important sports, we are ready and able to compete with any high school athletic team in the state. While our teams may not have won every game, they have made a fine record and have raised the name of Wadesboro "Tigers" to a place of state-wide prominence.

"Luck to you always

CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of 1927, a group of youngsters, accompanied by their parents, walked very bashfully onto the Hi-Way of Knowledge. This group, the Class of 1939, was started out on the long, hard journey by Mrs. Liles and Miss Plunkett, who patiently steered through "Baby Ray" and "Rithmetic." Miss Nall and Miss Webb took control next, safely conducting us on to more difficult roads. Well can we all remember how interesting those two teachers made the study of the multiplication tables and spelling matches. At the beginning of the third grade Marion Rogers and Rachel Marsh joined our ranks. Mrs. Gray and Miss Cameron guided us through this third lap of our journey, and Miss Gullede and Miss Crowder, the fourth. They all tried to give us a thorough knowledge of the fundamental subjects of education—reading, writing, and arithmetic. Philip Garriss was added to our number in the fourth grade.

At the end of the fourth grade we could see our Hi-Way broadening ahead of us. Our means of conveyance changed. We were transferred from the Grammar Building to the High School Building. Many strange subjects were introduced to us by our teachers of the fifth grade, Miss Leak and Mrs. Bennett. A sound base for further studies in history and English were laid by our helpful instructors. New students that year were Robert Hough and Helen Walters. The following year brought forth a most radical change in our journey down the Hi-Way of Knowledge. Not one, but several teachers, began leading the way. In the sixth grade Miss Pinkston, Miss Little, Mr. Sadler, Miss Cunningham, and Mrs. Dockery led the way. For the last grade of our elementary schooling, Miss Cunningham, Mr. DeHart, Miss Hanff, Miss Pinkston, and Miss Stallings were our able leaders. We were a proud group of boys and girls who received our "passports" to the Big Hi-Way, high school, on the memorable Junior High commencement day in 1934.

The following fall our group, with the addition of Nannie Lee Eddins, entered high school. This road seemed most strange and terrifying to all of us green freshmen. Just beginning the mysteriously new subjects, Latin, algebra, and others, we found them at first all "Greek" to us. With the guidance of Mrs. Dockery, Miss Hollowell, Miss Stansell, Mr. Caddell, Mr. Bass, and Miss Redwine, however, we soon began to see "the light." Mrs. Edmunds, Miss Stansell, Mr. Caddell, Miss Pitts, Miss Redwine, Mrs. Huntley, and Miss Jones guided us through the second lap of the Big Hi-Way, giving assistance most willingly at all times. In the middle of that year the chief guide, Superintendent Richardson, resigned his post, which was taken over for the remainder of the year by the principal, Mr. Caddell. Mr. Snuggs then became principal, the position of great service and help that he has held till now.

The next year we resumed our eventful journey with quite a sophisticated name and bearing. We were Juniors. We were quite fortunate that year in the addition of Mr. Lewis as our superintendent and friend, which he has remained till this day. The staff of our teachers was composed of Mrs. Meyers, Miss Austin, Mrs. Edmunds, Mr. Snuggs, Miss Pitts, Miss Abbitt, Mrs. Huntley, and Mr. Thomas. A new travel-mate, Charlie Hildreth, was added to our number. A temporary halt on the Hi-way of Knowledge was called by us Juniors, who gave the traditional Junior-Senior Banquet. For several days before the eventful "night of nights" we could think of nothing else. If we do say so ourselves, it was a wonderful affair. Who of us will ever forget the grape-balloons and lattice-work and then—that swell orchestra? At the end of school that year we learned to our surprise that the following year we would not be Seniors, but that a twelfth grade was to be added to the high school.

Thus, it was the fourth lap of our journey in high school, and we held not the coveted title—"Seniors!" We had as homeroom teacher for the eleventh grade, Miss Austin, and our other teachers were Miss Thompson, Mr. Snuggs, Miss Trotti, Miss Johnson, Mr. Wildermuth, and Mr. Hicks. Added to our group of travelers were Bill Martin, Harriet Roberson, and Samuel Huneycutt. At the end of school that year it seemed rather odd to just stop school without commencement exercises of any kind.

And now—Seniors! a class of thirty-two, including Sara Ratliff, William Sloan, and Sara Price Thomas, three new students. We are not so many as we were on that first day twelve years ago, only nineteen of us who began then still remaining. What we lack in number, however, can well be made up in our great versatility and common desire to accomplish great things. Led by the same teacher as in the eleventh grade, Mrs. Reinhardt, who was Miss Austin, we have found through her deep friendship and personal interest in each of us many noble treasures of character that we will never forget. Mr. Reinhardt, Mr. Snuggs, Mr. Wildermuth, Miss Thompson, Miss Johnson, Miss Stansell, and Miss Trotti are also very helpful in leading us in our final lap of the way.

Now, facing graduation, we see not the end of the Hi-Way, but the beginning—horizons of further Knowledge and Usefulness looming ahead of us.

Looking back over our twelve years of school we are sincere in saying that every mile of the way, made happy by our helpful teachers and friends, is a memory to be cherished forever.

ROWLAND PRUETTE, JR.

CLASS PROPHECY

Several weeks ago while working in my private office on the 138th floor of the Empire State building, one of my superiors entered and explained to me that the Investigation Department had quite an important assignment for me. It seemed that my job was to find out just what had happened to any class that had been graduated from high school ten years earlier. Much to my joy, I was told that my graduating class would do, as it was average. The Department just wanted to make a complete check-up and analyze the results.

With this news I hurried back to dear ol' Wadesboro which now has a population of 50,000, a beautiful white-way, and at least a dozen skyscrapers. On one of the skyscrapers the bright electric lights spelled out, "The Pee Dee Athletic Club—We guarantee to make muscular men out of skinny sissies." I later found out that the manager and owner of the association was none other than Robert Hough, a W. H. S. football hero graduating in '39.

Around the block was a neat little office building of John Hawkins Thomas. Nothing on the door indicated his occupation, but John himself told me that he was a successful supervisor of newsboys. He taught them the proper newsboy's cry and then the way to throw the paper without killing the cat or breaking the window panes. His heart was truly in his work.

My next find was at the smart Swansonia Theatre owned by Samuel Huneycutt and William Martin. The feature attraction for the night was "Cousin Tabithy Domineers the Domain," with Wadesboro's own Marion Rogers in the lead, and a supporting cast including Anne Morris, Bill Hightower, and Clark Gable.

A roaring noise in the sky reverted my attention heavenward. A silver plane streaked across the sun and the name of James I. Lawson on the side of the machine caught my eye. The amazing fact was that Isabelle Underwood was the pretty stewardess of the Lawson Line and Marshall Staton was the pilot.

In the professional building the offices of Cooke and Sloan were full of patients. It seemed that Dr. W. H. Sloan, Jr., the chiropractor, and Dr. J. M. Cooke, the chiropodist, had a successful partnership.

The increasing population of the town had caused a greater demand for milk, it seemed, and Charlie Hildreth had a large, modern dairy furnishing Grade A milk. Rumor had it that he and his head dairy maid, Edith Carter, were still a courting couple.

I spent the night in the "International Hotel" owned and operated by Watt McKinnon. In the middle of the night the terrifying screams of Julia Hill, the noted poet and author of the best seller, "Come Back With the Wind," aroused the guests of the hotel. She had seen a mouse! Flatfoot "Fully" Allen, the house detective, was master of the situation, however, by exterminating the brute and nonchalantly walking away.

The next day I left Wadesboro in order to find the rest of the class of '39. In New York, Helen Walters had founded a library, The Student's Haven, catering only to high school students. Any one who was prone to put off getting a book report until the last minute was able to get a very condensed form of most any book and even a short write-up of it. Helen's assistants in this noble work, all competent workers, were Cora Curlee, Rachel Marsh, and Myrtle Sanders.

In Charlotte I found Gertrude Hill, now married and working with her husband in his jewelry shoppe. Gertrude said that she enjoyed her work and especially the fact that it kept her near "him."

My next stop was Washington, D. C. Rowland Pruette, a congressman from N. C., was the man of the hour. The bill introduced by him making it a crime to prohibit "Little Appling" in any place at any time had the Capital in an uproar. Nannie Lee Eddins was Congressman Pruette's private secretary.

In one of the evening papers, "The Gossiper," I noticed that the joint editors were Harriet Roberson and Sarah Price Thomas. It was really a scoop sheet; all news was so fresh and gossipy. Sara Ratliff had a very interesting column entitled, "Comforting Comments to the Careworn." She said that very often her old classmates wrote her to solve their courtship and matrimonial problems.

John Tice had organized a "Lonely Heart's Escort Bureau" in San Francisco. His main escort, the most popular one with all of the ladies, was handsome Philip Garriss.

On one of my many trips over the country I came across Mararuth Allen singing with the Pedopolitian Opera Company. At the last place on the southern tour they were making, Lilesville, N. C., she had sung the leading role in that tragic Italian opera—"Omi Fee Turt."

This completed my check-up as I had found everything I wanted to know about my former classmates. With a mixed feeling of pride and surprise I returned to my job to report these bits of information. The class of '39 continues on the Hi-Way of life.

Last Will and Testament

State of North Carolina,
Anson County.

I, John H. Thomas, being of a disposing mind, but considering the uncertainty of my years in high school, do make this my last will and testament.

I. I bequeath to Mr. Lewis, Mr. Snuggs, and the whole faculty all our best wishes and happiness.

II. I bequeath to Percy Beachum, F. C. Allen's pretty golden locks to be combed faithfully every day of his natural life.

III. I bequeath Mararuth Allen's popularity to Mary Evelyn Morris to help her get her man.

IV. I bequeath to Sadie Bowman, John Cooke's automobile to keep Mr. Snuggs from fussing about her being late.

V. I bequeath to Evalyn Allen, Edith Carter's reputation as the best dressed girl.

VI. I bequeath to Bobby Huntley, Philip Garriss's ability in athletics and his ability to stay out of arguments.

VII. I bequeath to Beverly Rose, Samuel Huneycutt's height so that the former can dance with the girls at the Junior-Senior.

VIII. I bequeath to Edith Odom, Ann Hardison's figure, which is the most shapely one of the class.

IX. I bequeath to Walter Mangum, Bill Hightower's reputation as "William Powell" Hightower; this should help him with his little Sadie.

X. I bequeath Marshall Staton's theory that all women are unnecessary evils to Fred Mills.

XI. I bequeath to Corneille Caraway, Julia Hill's interest in the boys. This should help Corneille get a date once in a while.

XII. I bequeath Bill Martin's good disposition and quietness to Robert Huntley.

XIII. I bequeath to Mack Coley, Watt McKinnon's cuteness and heart-breaking ability.

XIV. I bequeath to Nancy Gathings, Anne Morris's laughing personality, to keep her from getting wrinkles in her face.

XV. I bequeath to Lou Hardison, Nannie Lee Eddins's idea, that "I don't care if I ain't loved."

XVI. I bequeath to Elizabeth Williamson, Isabelle Underwood's red hair to be used to attract a curly headed brunette senior.

XVII. I bequeath to Edna Bowman, John Tice's ability to always have a book report.

XVIII. I bequeath to Buddy Taylor, William Sloan's hair tonic to keep his hair out of his eyes.

XIX. I bequeath to Josephine Jones, Marion Rogers's reputation as "Eleanor Powell" Rogers.

XX. I bequeath to Harvey Leavitt, Jake Hanna's reputation as a careful bus driver. This may help him out down in Society Hill.

XXI. I bequeath to Marie Porter, Helen Walters's height; maybe with this she could get the tip-off in a basketball game.

XXII. I bequeath to William Brower, P. D. Hough's dependability while working in the school store.

XXIII. I bequeath to Virginia Dunlap, Harriet Roberson's sincerity.

XXIV. I bequeath to Patsy Teal, Myrtle Sanders's bashfulness.

XXV. I bequeath to Hubert Gaddy, Flora Ann Brock, with best wishes from Rowland Pruette.

XXVI. I bequeath to Nell McIntosh, Cora Lee Curlee's height, so she can walk in and out of doors more easily.

XXVII. I bequeath to all the hopeful Junior boys, Charlie Hildreth's art of having all the girls under his thumb.

XXVIII. I bequeath to Anne Wyatt, Sara Ratliff's theory that it doesn't pay to fuss.

XXIX. I bequeath to Ellender Sauls, James Lawson's ability to be absent on Book Report Day.

XXX. I bequeath to the football team, the ability of Sarah Thomas of being late every day.

I declare this to be my last will and testament, this thirtieth day of May, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine.

My Seal
